

Budget Dumpster Establishes Waste Removal Services in Orlando, FL

Budget Dumpster, a nation-wide provider of dumpster rentals, now operates in the city of Orlando, FL. The Orlando expansion is accompanied by the addition of several other cities to the company's service areas in Florida.

Orlando, FL (Feb. 2013) – Budget Dumpster is a Cleveland-based company that owns and operates a nation-wide service that provides roll-off dumpsters for rent. The company has recently expanded its services to include the city of Orlando, as part of a broader effort to bring its roll-off dumpsters to the Sunshine state. The company aims to acquire a sizeable share of Orlando's dumpster rental market over the coming years in order to establish itself as a leading waste removal service in the city and surrounding communities.

Budget Dumpster's new Orlando operations service a number of counties surrounding the city. This includes the counties of Lake, Orange, Osceola, and Seminole. Several populous suburban cities lie within these counties, providing an even broader range of potential customers. Such cities as Kissimmee and Sanford are home to more than 50,000 people, with Orlando claiming approximately 240,000 residents as well.

The city of Orlando was chosen by the company due to its large residential population and thriving commercial sector. The city is host to a number of different enterprises including popular tourist attractions, technology companies, and is also the headquarters for several hotel and restaurant chains. The activities of these companies creates a large demand for waste removal services in the form of construction projects and real estate development; creating an opportunity for companies like Budget Dumpster to expand their customer base.

The company's dumpster rentals in Orlando are provided through a partnership with local trash haulers. The relationship between Budget Dumpster and its partnered haulers allows both businesses to grow their respective services through a combination of skills that both parties bring to the table. Budget Dumpster applies its extensive background and knowledge of the industry to drive customers to its service. This in turn benefits the partnered haulers who carry out the resulting orders.

The dumpster rentals used by Budget Dumpster are commonly referred to as "roll-off dumpsters". These are portable waste containers that are designed to be transported via purpose-built trucks, and feature wheels that allow the containers to roll off the trucks. The targeted users for these dumpsters include homeowners, private contractors, and construction crews with short-term waste disposal needs. Every dumpster is offered for a two week period, during which the customer is free to fill it up with approved waste items. These waste items are typically some form of construction debris or residential trash.

Typical uses for roll-off dumpsters include home cleanouts, renovations, building construction, and demolition work. The waste generated by these various projects is usually unfit for disposal through conventional waste management services. These trash pick-up services are generally limited to a narrower range of waste materials, usually in the form of municipal solid waste. Bulkier trash items, such as furniture and appliances, cannot be disposed of on a regular basis through such services. Roll-off containers are more than adequate for containing bulkier items, as well as the trash from the average household, making them an ideal choice for many homeowners.

Budget Dumpster's expansion into Orlando is accompanied by the addition of several other cities to the company's serviceable areas. These cities include Miami, St. Petersburg, Jacksonville, and Daytona Beach. The company's long-term goals for Florida are to establish itself as a popular brand among the communities in which it operates. It currently has a strong focus on the Florida's Panhandle region, as well as the state's central regions with the addition of Orlando. Over the next few years, the company hopes to expand into other cities that are currently underserved by the region's waste removal companies.

About Budget Dumpster
